Dear friends,

As governor of the great State of Louisiana, it is my honor to welcome the members of the Southern Criminal Justice Association to the vibrant City of New Orleans for your 2017 conference.

Your theme, "The Criminal Justice Milieu in the South," comes at a relevant time for Louisiana. This year, I was proud to sign into law the most comprehensive criminal justice reform package in the history of the state. These substantive changes were modeled after best practices across the South with input from law enforcement, advocates, and victims of crime. Through this bipartisan effort, we hope to create safer communities while shedding Louisiana's title of highest incarceration rate in the nation.

During your stay, I encourage you to take advantage of Louisiana's many cultural and historical attractions, not to mention our famous music and cuisine. Whether you are a returning or first-time visitor, there is something for everyone to enjoy.

I want to thank you for the work you do to ensure states across the South have access to the most current research on criminal justice practices. On behalf of the State of Louisiana, I wish you a successful conference and enjoyable stay in New Orleans. We hope you come back to visit us again soon!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "John Bel Edwards".

John Bel Edwards
Governor

MITCHELL J. LANDRIEU, MAYOR
CITY OF NEW ORLEANS

Welcome!

As Mayor of New Orleans, it is my pleasure to welcome the Southern Criminal Justice Association Annual Conference. Thank you for choosing New Orleans.

You will experience the warm hospitality and unique culture that New Orleans has to offer. I am certain that New Orleans will serve as the perfect destination for the conference and provide the best opportunities for the group. While you are here, take some time to relax and explore the City. Dine in our incomparable restaurants; enjoy some of the great music we have to offer, tour historic neighborhoods like the French Quarter and Treme, and shop in our antique and specialty shops throughout New Orleans, including the bustling Magazine Street corridor. It is my hope that your stay will be memorable and that you leave with new knowledge and relationships.

I extend my best wishes to the Southern Criminal Justice Association Annual Conference, as well as those traveling to partake in the festivities. I want to thank you again for choosing New Orleans.

Sincerely,

Dear SCJA Members and Conference Participants,

Welcome to New Orleans and the 45th Annual Meeting of the Southern Criminal Justice Association! It has been some time since we have been to the western side of the region. Be sure to take time to enjoy the sites and attractions after and between conference events.

This year's theme is "The Criminal Justice Milieu in the South." While presentations and roundtables should keep southern criminal justice in mind, presentations/roundtables tackle a host of criminological concerns. The Program Chair, Marv Krohn, has created a strong program of presentations, roundtables, and events. We hope you enjoy the program across the week. Remember that there is food and drink available throughout the conference, but especially at receptions. In addition to our panels and roundtables, there are several events I would like to highlight. On Wednesday, SCJA is providing a mini-workshop on funding offender treatment programming, conducted by Mitch Miller; the workshop is a little shorter than normal workshops and will begin at 9:30. In addition, the Presidential Address and Poster Session (complete with the third annual student competition) will be held from 3:30-5:30 on Wednesday; immediately after the poster showcase will be the Presidents Reception sponsored by the University of Central Florida from 6:00 to 8:30. On Thursday night, the Springer Reception will be held from 6:00-8:30. On both Thursday and Friday mornings, from 8:30-9:30, we will hold student breakfasts; Thursday morning will focus on publishing and Friday morning will focus on going to a graduate/doctoral program. As in the last two years, current and former Editors of some of the best journals in our field and representatives from doctoral programs across the region will moderate these breakfasts. Finally, the Keynote Address will be given by Dr. Marcus Felson at the Awards Luncheon on Friday from 12:00-1:45.

It has been an honor and a pleasure to serve as your President over the last year. Overall, SCJA continues its upward trajectory. SCJA is without a doubt the best regional association and conference; this is illustrated in our growth as an organization and the programming we are able to provide at the conference. Over this last year, the Board of Directors and I have engaged in several initiatives. First, we have worked to update the association logo brand (you can see it below on the left). To celebrate the new logo, we will be providing t-shirts featuring the logo to registrants of the conference. Second, in our efforts to streamline SCJA policies, we have created a new policy for the old "webmaster" position. The new IT Coordinator position will now be standardized with a full list of duties and information on term limits. All lines are now systematically uniform across our policies. Third, in an effort to recruit new membership, we held a reception at ACJS in Kansas City in the spring. The reception was considered to be a great success. The board will report to the membership of how successful we were in recruiting based on attendance at this conference when we have our mid-year meeting at the at ACJS in the Spring of 2018. In addition, we have continued our support of students via conference breakfasts, poster competition, and awards for exceptional students in the region. Finally, the American Journal of Criminal Justice, is again one of the top journals in our field. Special thanks the AJCJ editor Wesley Jennings; his run as editor has taken the journal to new heights. In 2018, the journal will transition to the new editor, Mitch Miller. Mitch was selected as the new editor of AJCJ from a very competitive process and field of applicants.

In short, the state of the SCJA is exceptional. The Board of Directors is a large reason for this. Members of the Board are critical in the functioning of the SCJA. I would encourage everyone who has not done so to contribute to the SCJA by running for a position on the Board or helping with committee work. The SCJA needs you.

As with any conference, a great deal of planning went into this conference. Thanks goes out to all the committees and their chairs, as well as the Board of Directors, for making sure this conference is a success. Thanks also goes to Immediate Past President Heith Copes, who has helped in making sure the numbers are correct for rooms and receptions. Special thanks to Marv Krohn, this year's Program Chair and current Vice President, for his time and effort in making the conference a success. Please make sure you provide any feedback about the conference to Marv so that we can make improvements to next year's conference in Pensacola Beach, Florida, when we go back to the beach.

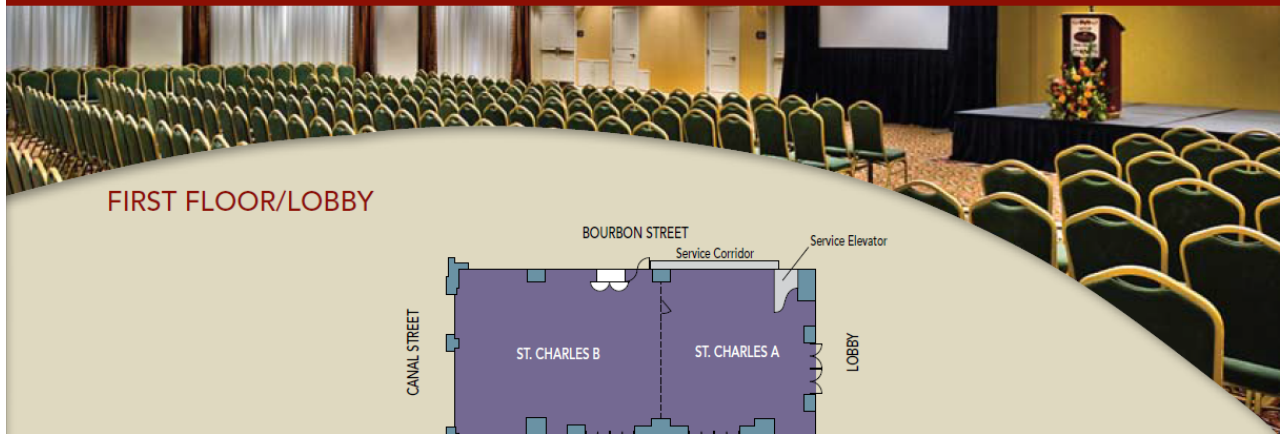

I hope you all enjoy the conference, the Astor Crowne Plaza, and New Orleans. Your participation and attendance are greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

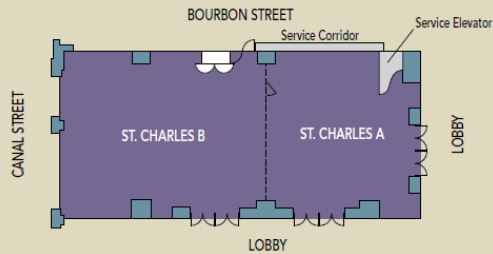

Sean Maddan

SCJA KEYNOTE 2017:

Dr. Marcus Felson

“A New Teaching Framework for Criminology”

Marcus Felson is the originator of the routine activity approach and author of Crime and Everyday Life. He has also authored Crime and Nature, and serves as a Professor at Texas State University in San Marcos, Texas. He has a B.A. from University of Chicago, an M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Michigan, and has received the 2014 Honoris Causa from the Universidad Miguel Hernandez in Spain. Professor Felson has been given the Ronald Clarke Award by the Environmental Criminology and Crime Analysis group, and the Paul Tappan Award of the Western Society of Criminology. He has been a guest lecturer in Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Denmark, Ecuador, El Salvador, England, Finland, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Scotland, Spain, South Africa, Sweden and Switzerland. He has applied routine activity thinking to many topics, including theft, violence, child molesting, white collar crime, and corruption.

2017 Award Recipients

The Tom Barker Outstanding Undergraduate Student Award

Caralin Branscum, Florida Atlantic University

Ms. Branscum is majoring in Criminology and Criminal Justice at Florida Atlantic University (FAU). She began her coursework at FAU prior to graduating from Henderson High School in May of 2017. Impressively, she completed 103 credit hours at FAU with a GPA of 3.94 while also completing a rigorous load of AP coursework at Henderson. She is the winner of two competitive FAU Summer Undergraduate Research Fellowships. One of these fellowships led her to complete work on how instances of voluntary victim intoxication impact sexual assault case processing. In addition, she is the recipient of the GEO Merit-Based Foundation Scholarship and was selected as the 2016 Undergraduate Researcher of the Year for the College for Design and Social Inquiry at FAU. Finally, Caralin has also chosen to pursue a life of service. She volunteers with the FAU Student Accessibility Services Office, the Every Child Matters program, and at First United Methodist Church of Coral springs, Florida. Her community engagement benefits students with disabilities, children, families experiencing hardships, and the greater Palm Beach County, Florida.

(Selection Committee Chair: Dr. Sheri Jenkins Keenan, University of Memphis Lambuth)

The Outstanding Masters Student Award

Whitney Tchoula, The University of Alabama at Birmingham

The SCJA Outstanding Masters Student Award Committee has unanimously decided that Whitney Tchoula is the 2017 student award winner. Ms. Tchoula is very engaged in cutting-edge research where she is taking an active role in collecting data and preparing manuscripts. Indeed, she already has a few publications which is rare and commendable for a student at her level. In addition to her promising research career, Ms. Tchoula clearly demonstrates a dedication to the profession and her fellow students; these are admirable qualities and ones that SCJA holds in high regard. Based on the award application, it was not surprising to read that she has been accepted to Rutgers for her PhD as she clearly has the aptitude and experience to pursue a doctorate.

(Selection Committee Chair: Dr. Ráchael Powers, University of South Florida)

The Outstanding Doctoral Student Award Lindsay Leban, The University of Florida

Lindsay Leban expects to earn her Ph.D. in Criminology, Law, and Society from the University of Florida (UF) in 2018 but has already amassed an impressive record of research, teaching, and service accomplishments. As an undergraduate, Lindsay participated in the Research Experiences for Undergraduates (REU) program sponsored by the National Science Foundation that afforded her the opportunity to work with researchers at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. She was so exceptional in this program that she was invited back as a mentor for the next 3 years. As a graduate student, Lindsay has established an impressive and impactful research program that offers key theoretical and empirical contributions to the extant literature on youth deviance, drug users, and incarcerated offenders. She already has six peer-reviewed publications in top-tier outlets (i.e. Justice Quarterly and Deviant Behavior) with numerous manuscripts under-review or in-progress. Her exceptional work has previously been recognized by the SCJA (2013 Outstanding Undergraduate Student Award) and she has earned numerous accolades at UF including awards for Most Innovative Teaching (2016), the Most Innovative Thesis (2015) and the Ronald Akers Graduate Student Paper Award (2015). In addition to her impressive research record, Lindsay has taught courses in Research Methods and Drugs and Society. Finally, she has accomplished all of this while making significant contributions to her academic program, college, and community. These contributions include: mentoring peers and undergraduates in the REU program, serving on the UF Graduate Student Advisory Council, serving as Communications Liaison and Secretary for the UF Criminology Graduate Student Syndicate, fundraising for the Florida Society of the Social Sciences, and co-chairing a Social Science Research Symposium.

(Selection Committee Chair: Dr. Shaun Thomas, University of Arkansas)

The Outstanding Professional Award

James Stewart, Hammond Police Department

James Stewart, a graduate of Loyola University, has worked in law enforcement for over 35 years. He has served as a member of the FBI, NOPD, and Orleans Parish Sheriff's Office. He was previously awarded the Medal of Valor for Bravery and the DOJ's Threat Task Force Excellence in Investigations award.

The Outstanding Article Award

John Smykla, Florida Atlantic University
Matthew S. Crow, University of West Florida
Vaughn J. Crichlow, Florida Atlantic University
Jamie A. Snyder, University of West Florida

"Police Body-Worn Cameras: Perceptions of Law Enforcement Leadership"

Abstract: Many people are enthusiastic about the potential benefits of police body-worn cameras (BWC). Despite this enthusiasm, however, there has been no research on law enforcement command staff perceptions of BWCs. Given the importance that law enforcement leadership plays in the decision to adopt and implement BWCs, it is necessary to assess their perceptions. This is the first study to measure law enforcement leadership attitudes toward BWCs. The study relies on data collected from surveys administered to command staff representing local, state and federal law enforcement agencies in a large southern county. Among the major perceptual findings are that command staff believe BWCs will impact police officers' decisions to use force in encounters with citizens and police will be more reluctant to use necessary force in encounters with the public. Respondents also believe that use of BWCs is supported by the public because society does not trust police, media will use BWC data to embarrass police, and pressure to implement BWCs comes from the media. Perceptions of the impact of BWCs on safety, privacy, and police effectiveness are also discussed.

The Outstanding Educator Award

Dr. Bruce Arrigo, The University of North Carolina at Charlotte

As an internationally acclaimed scholar and active SCJA member for over 10 years, Dr. Arrigo has produced a prolific body of work of more than 200 peer-reviewed articles, books, book chapters, edited volumes, law reviews, and professional essays which address some of the most profoundly complex contemporary crime and justice problems. Through his teaching, research, and service, he has advanced the cause of social justice and promoted excellence in scholarship among scores of students, mentees, and colleagues.

In recognition of his extraordinary accomplishments in teaching and research, Dr. Arrigo has been the recipient of the Criminologist of the Year Award (2000) for the Division of Critical Criminology of the American Society of Criminology, an elected Fellow of the American Psychological Association for the Psychology-Law Division (2002), an elected Fellow of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (2005), and the Bruce Smith Sr. Award (2007) sponsored by the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. In addition, Dr. Arrigo was selected for the 2012 Society for the Study of Social Problems' Lifetime Achievement Award (Division on Crime and Juvenile Delinquency) and the 2015 Lifetime Achievement Award from the American Society of Criminology (Division of Critical Criminology).

Dr. Arrigo was nominated by multiple former and present students which attest that his "willingness to nurture intellectual curiosity is matched only by his ability to meaningfully engage learners in critical thinking exercises and scholarly debate." In addition, his students argue that he has "unique open-mindedness towards principles of justice that are outside of the mainstream" and that he assisted them in thinking critically about issues and developing a "passion for social justice."

Southern Criminal Justice Association Annual Charity Spotlight

Covenant House of New Orleans

Covenant House New Orleans was founded on the edge of the French Quarter 30 years ago to provide a safe haven for homeless, runaway, and at-risk youth (ages 22 and under). We have provided over 20,000 kids with food, shelter, clothing, medical care, educational and vocational support, individual and family counseling, job readiness and placement, short & long-term housing, life skills, and more.

The vast majority of our youth have endured physical and/or sexual abuse and have also experienced the violence of the streets. Our counselors estimate 85% suffer from some form of traumatic stress disorder. Tulane's Cowen Institute estimates there are 26,000 at-risk youth in our community.

Our first priority is always to reunite our youth with healthy, functional family. For the majority of our kids for whom family is not an option, we give them an educational & vocational assessment and help them find a job that suits their skills and interest. We offer many services to help, from mock interviews & resume writing classes to workshops on basic life skills and healthy relationships.

CALL FOR PAPERS

The American Journal of Criminal Justice, sponsored by the Southern Criminal Justice Association, is a refereed publication, where manuscripts go through a blind review process. The focus of AJCJ is on a wide array of criminal justice topics and issues, including items pertaining to the criminal justice process, the formal and informal interplay between system components, problems and solutions experienced by various segments, innovative practices, policy development and implementation, evaluative research, the players engaged in these enterprises, and a wide assortment of other related interests. The AJCJ publishes original articles that utilize a broad range of methodologies and perspectives to examine crime, law, and criminal justice processing.

Prospective authors should send a cover letter with contact information and the manuscript electronically to Sheana Mata, Managing Editor, at ajcjscjatxstate@gmail.com.

BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC SERVICE

Department of Criminal Justice

Master of Arts—Criminal Justice

The master's degree in Criminal Justice is designed to provide a foundation in research and theory in substantive areas of criminal justice activity and focused scholarship on issues of importance to the field.

The faculty in our department is very productive in terms of teaching, publishing, and service to the community.

This translates into graduate courses that are cutting-edge and relevant as well as opportunities for both faculty-student research collaborations and student engagement in community discipline-related service.

The Department of Criminal Justice at Boise State University was named one of the top 10 M.A.-granting universities in terms of total grant dollars obtained by our faculty (Mustaine & Tewksbury, 2009).

A recent internal review determined that our program has a 100% placement rate for students applying to Ph.D. programs.

Application deadlines:

For Spring admission: October 1st

For Fall admission: April 1st (Priority - February 15th)

Department of Criminal Justice

Ph.D. in Criminal Justice:

The Department of Criminal Justice invites applicants for our Criminal Justice Ph.D. program. This degree is designed to provide professional training for those interested in academic as well as applied research positions.

We are seeking qualified Masters Degree graduates wanting to further their professional careers and who are interested in a 12-month stipend (with health insurance) and full tuition remission. To determine the qualifications we perform a holistic review. This includes Master GPA, GRE score, TOEFL score, letters of recommendation and personal statement. Incoming students usually have a minimum of : Master GPA-3.25, GRE-296, and for international students a TOEFL score of 80 on the Internet based test. Graduate assistant appointments include both research and instructional placements.

Our faculty are active scholars, engaging in research that encourages and supports best practices in criminal justice strategies, programs and organizations. The faculty's orientation toward applied research results in strong partnerships with local, state, national and international criminal justice organizations and provides our students with significant research opportunities.

Louisville is a vibrant and diverse metropolitan area of nearly 1 million. The University of Louisville is one of a selective group of public universities nationwide to be designated an institution of "very high research activity" by the Carnegie Foundation.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS ARLINGTON

Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

The University of Texas at Arlington is a Carnegie Research-1 “highest research activity” institution. Guided by its Strategic Plan Bold Solutions | Global Impact, UTA fosters interdisciplinary research within four broad themes: health and the human condition, sustainable urban communities, global environmental impact, and data-driven discovery. UTA was recently cited by U.S. News & World Report as having the second lowest average student debt among U.S. universities. U.S. News & World Report also ranks UTA fifth in the nation for undergraduate diversity. The University is a Hispanic-Serving Institution and is ranked as the top four-year college in Texas for veterans on Military Times’ 2017 Best for Vets list.

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice has nearly 700 students at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and is one of the fastest-growing units on campus. The department offers two MA degree programs, with approximately 100 graduate students across both programs. The MA on-campus program is designed for pre-professional students, criminal justice professionals, and students preparing for entry into PhD or law programs. The MA cohort program is offered at our Fort Worth campus, and is designed for criminal justice professionals who want to complete an intensive, executive MBA-style program in just 21 months. The cohort program is offered in person and as a virtual cohort. Additional information about all of our programs may be found online at: <http://www.uta.edu/criminology>

ABOUT THE FACULTY

We currently have eleven tenured and tenure-track faculty members with a breadth of research and teaching strengths in: Corrections, Race and Crime, Gender and Crime, Crime and the Life Course, Biosocial Criminology, Cybercrime, Crime Scene Technology, Religion and Crime, Juvenile Justice, Gangs, and Violent Crimes.

Master of Arts in Criminology

About the Program

The Master of Arts in Criminology degree is designed to develop and enhance the students' knowledge of criminology to prepare them for administrative or research careers in the criminal justice system. Graduates of the program often enter law school, doctoral programs, or are successful in finding employment in local, state, and federal agencies and private corporations.

Our faculty are experienced professionals with diverse backgrounds in working with the criminal justice system and conducting research on a wide range of issues. We encourage faculty-student collaboration and student research based on the students' practical and academic interests.

The seminar style classrooms allow students to engage in critical examination of criminological theory and criminal justice issues in addition to intelligent and effective discussions on various topics. All of our courses are offered in the evenings or online delivery formats to fit the demands of contemporary students' schedules.

Admission Requirements

- Overall undergraduate GPA of 3.0 in a criminology, criminal justice, or related field
