Dear SCJA Members and Conference Participants,

Welcome back to the beach! The theme of this year's conference is 'Making a Difference about Crime and Criminal Justice.' The theme comes from my questioning how much impact our research has on understanding the causes of crime and the operation and improvement of the criminal justice system. It is my hope that the presentations, roundtables, and posters include an assessment of whether the research actually has the potential to make an important difference. John Stogner, our program chair, has done an amazing job of accommodating what appears to be a record number of presentations for what should be an exciting conference. To highlight the theme, I asked seven scholars to address the question of whether research had made a difference in six controversial areas of crime and criminal justice. Two thematic presentations will take place at 11 a.m. each morning when no other presentations are scheduled, affording all those who want to attend an opportunity to do so. Our Keynote speaker, Thomas Blomberg, who is well-known for his work in the area of translational research, will also address this theme during our SCJA Awards Luncheon on Friday. My Presidential Address on Wednesday at 4 p.m. asks the question of whether we are making as much of a difference as we could (should)? I hope this theme fosters spirited debates at our evening receptions which are made possible by great sponsors: the University of Central Florida, Florida Atlantic University, and Springer.

Serving as the SCJA president this past year has been an interesting and rewarding experience. The association continues to be the best regional association and hopefully this year's conference will live up to the expectations generated by the quality of previous conferences. The health of our organization has enabled us to provide for a number of initiatives to advantage our student members and to recruit new members. This year we have offered a year's free membership to participants who attend the conference for the first time. Under the direction of our recruitment chair, Andy Hanson, we are contacting volunteers at colleges and universities to be our membership liaisons to their respective institutions. We would like to broaden the representation across institutions throughout the southern region. We also need to be vigilant about maintaining our membership numbers in light of a decreasing trend in graduate enrollment in criminal justice programs throughout the country. We hope to also begin to publish an on-line quarterly newsletter to facilitate communication amongst our members and to advertise positions which are of interest to our members. As the 50th anniversary of the SCJA will be upon us in a few years, I have asked our webmaster, John Eassey, to begin collating historical information about the association and placing it on our website.

I am most pleased to acknowledge that our journal, the American Journal of Criminal Justice, has now received Social Science Index impact factor. This is a major accomplishment for those who have worked so diligently to improve the quality of research that is published in it. Most especially our thanks should be extended to Wesley Jennings, who was editor of AJCJ and had most to do with its upward trajectory. Our sincere appreciation also goes out to Katie Chabalko and Springer for supporting those efforts. I anticipate that AJCJ will continue to improve under Mitch Miller's editorship, and look forward to its expansion to 6 issues a year.

One aspect that makes this organization run so efficiently and be an inviting arena in which to share ideas is the number of people who are willing to pitch in to help in the planning and implementation of the various things we do. All the Board of Directors helped in one or more areas. They have been a pleasure with whom to work. Special thanks goes out to Sean Maddan who never failed to answer the many questions I had concerning putting together a conference and other aspects of running the association. Kathy Johnson, our secretariat, does much of the really hard work for the association and our treasurer, Chad Posick, always had the very necessary checkbook available. I also want to acknowledge the effort of John Stogner, our program chair and incoming president. Our association will be in good hands under his leadership. Please make sure you provide any feedback about the conference to John so he can make next year's conference in Nashville even better.

Thank you all for the honor of serving as your president. I hope you enjoy the Hilton Gulf Front Hotel, Pensacola Beach, and, most especially, the beach.

Sincerely,

Marv Krohn
President, Southern Criminal Justice Association

Advice for Exploring Pensacola

President Marv Krohn's Best of the Beach List

Best places in Pensacola Beach for dinner:

Peg Leg Pete's – About 2 and a half miles from the hotel, Peg Leg's is a favorite of locals and tourists alike. Sitting on a canal off the Sound, the restaurant provides the ambience of a place where fishermen may have eaten. The downstairs bar is a cool place to have a drink before dinner. We really enjoyed the baked oysters and the grouper and John, our bartender insisted we try the key lime pie and we sure are glad we did.

If you want to travel a little further (15 minutes by car) into Pensacola near Palafox Street, The Fish House is a very good restaurant. As with so many places in the area, it sits on the water and has outdoor seating. We had a very good meal there. Nearby is Jackos, a restaurant which also has a good reputation although we did not eat there.

Best places for lunch:

Speaking about oysters, a unique find for us was a place called NOLA. The chef prides himself at outdoing the food from his native New Orleans. We can confirm that the charbroiled oysters are as good as any we had in New Orleans and the muffuletta challenges the Central Market for flavor (a full one is massive – I dare you to eat a whole one). It's a short walk west from the hotel. Johnny, Ben, AJ and the rest of the staff will take good care of you.

Crabs sits right next to the hotel. Enjoy the beach view as you sit outside in a relaxed atmosphere. The food is good - particularly the crab soup.

Best place for breakfast:

There are three little café's a quarter mile east of the hotel. The Native Café seems to be the local favorite but we liked the Café Bistro better.

Best bars:

Paradise Inn Bar – my favorite place on the island. The bar is located a quarter mile east of the hotel on the sound. They have a small beach next to the bar so you can wear your bathing suit and bring your drink in the water with you. They also have a large stage where they often have live music and the opportunity to show your dancing moves. The place is out of the 1950's which is probably why I like it so much. As a bonus, their hamburger is the best on the island.

Sandbar – Upstairs bar with a great view of the gulf. Cool vibe and pretty good food to boot. Good place to view the sunset. General manager Mike Hall can't wait to see our conference attendees.

Another bar you should check out is the Sandshaker about a quarter of a mile west of the hotel. The Bushwacker, the signature drink of Pensacola Beach (they even have a festival celebrating the drink) is said to have come ashore from St. Thomas and landed at the Sandshaker. I can't verify the truth of the story but I can tell you that the drink goes down real easy.

Best place for water sports:

Right below the NOLA Restaurant is Key Sailing where you can rent jet skis, kayaks, paddleboards, and sailboats, go parasailing, or go on a dolphin or sunset cruise. The owner is a cool guy and his employees will make whatever you do a fun experience.

Using WiFi during the conference:

Wifi in the meeting rooms is complimentary. Simply select "Hilton Meetings." There is no passcode.

Wifi service in the room is also included. The hotel asks that you bill it to the room. The fee will be taken off on the back end.

Sheriff

DAVID MORGAN

Welcome!

As Sheriff of Escambia County, it is my honor to welcome the members of the Southern Criminal Justice Association Annual Conference.

I welcome you to one of the most beautiful, diverse, and historical regions of NW Florida. Our community is full of friendly people. We are proud of our community and are eager to share with you some of its fun and interesting destinations. I encourage you to stay and look around. Enjoy our beautiful sunsets and blue sky.

I want to thank you for the work you do to ensure states across the South have access to the most current research on criminal justice practices. I hope your visit to Escambia County is a pleasant one.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "David Morgan".

The Outstanding Article Award

Albert M. Kopak, Western Carolina University
Gregory A. Frost, Adult Civil Citation Network

“Correlations of Program Success and Recidivism among Participants in Adult Pre-Arrest Diversion Program”

American Journal of Criminal Justice, December 2018, Volume 42, Issue 4, pp 727–745

Author Information: Dr. Kopak (left) specializes in the study of substance use disorders in criminal justice settings, with special attention given to the use of pre-arrest diversion practices. He has provided consultation in program evaluation and assessment for various criminal justice agencies in the US as well as the UK. He is an associate professor of criminology at Western Carolina University. Greg Frost (right) recently retired from the Tallahassee Police Department after a 30-year career working in law enforcement agencies in both sworn and senior administrative positions. He brings a unique perspective to law enforcement and criminal justice having spent the majority of his career in the area of research, policy, and program implementation. His work has involved diverse areas such as nuclear security, counter-terrorism, strategic crime analysis, domestic violence, mental health courts, law enforcement technologies, and public safety policy development.

Abstract: Adult pre-arrest diversion, also known as “deflection,” programs have great potential to change the way the criminal justice system currently operates. One defining feature of these programs is that they offer eligible adults the opportunity to avoid a formal criminal arrest record and all of the negative consequences that are associated with an arrest. The current study provides an assessment of factors related to successful program completion and post-program recidivism for participants in the Pre-Arrest Diversion/Adult Civil Citation (PAD/ACC) program in Leon County, Florida. Behavioral assessment and formal arrest data were drawn from 854 adults who participated in the program between March 2013 and June 2016. Adults undergo a comprehensive behavioral health assessment which utilizes the Global Assessment of Individual Needs (GAIN–SS). Several behavioral health indicators were associated with program outcome measures, which included successful program completion and post-program arrest. Participants with greater propensity for crime or violence, elevated levels of behavioral problems, and symptoms of a substance use disorder, including a positive drug screen, were more likely to fail to complete the program. Greater indications of behavioral problems and positive drug screen results were also significantly associated with a higher probability of post-program arrest. These results contribute to the lean knowledge related to the performance of these expanding programs, and they also have direct implications for the refinement of the PAD/ACC program.

Holly Ventura Miller received her B.A. in criminology from the University of Maryland in 2000, a master's in criminal justice from the University of South Carolina in 2002, and a Ph.D. in sociology from the University of South Carolina in 2006. She is currently an Associate Professor of Criminology & Criminal Justice at the University of North Florida. Dr. Miller is the author of more than 30 peer-reviewed journal articles and has obtained nearly $1,000,000 in external research funding since 2006. Her research areas include immigration and crime, juvenile delinquency, drug abuse treatment, and program evaluation. She has published in outlets such as Justice Quarterly, Criminal Justice & Behavior, Crime and Delinquency, Journal of Interpersonal Violence, Journal of Drug Issues, Prison Journal, and Journal of Criminal Justice and has participated in numerous research projects funded by federal and state agencies including the U.S. National Institute of Justice, the U.S. Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, and the U.S. Bureau of Justice Assistance. Dr. Miller was awarded the National Institute of Justice W.E.B. DuBois Fellowship in 2009 to study the effects of acculturation on crime and victimization among Hispanic adolescents. Dr. Miller has received numerous awards and accolades for both her research and teaching, including the American Journal of Criminal Justice Outstanding Paper Award in 2011 for her research on acculturation and drug use among Hispanic adolescents, the Dean's Distinguished Achievement Award for Teaching in 2013, the SAGE Junior Faculty Professional Development Teaching Award presented by the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences in 2010, and the American Society of Criminology Minority Fellowship in 2004. She is also the former President of the Southern Criminal Justice Association (SCJA), the leading professional organization for criminal justice researchers and practitioners in the South.

(Selection Committee Chair: Dr. Cathy Marcum, Appalachian State University)

Southern Criminal Justice Association Annual Charity Spotlight

Gulf Coast Kid's House is a private, not-for-profit which provides services to victims of child abuse. Gulf Coast Kid's House is a children's advocacy center serving Pensacola and Escambia County. As a children's advocacy center, the center combines all of the professionals and resources needed for the intervention, investigation and prosecution of child abuse cases under one child-friendly facility. Child victims and their families also receive mental health counseling at the center. The goal of Gulf Coast Kid's House is to form a more collaborative response to child abuse cases so that we can improve case outcomes and minimize trauma to the children and families we serve. Because the only hope to end child abuse is education, Gulf Coast Kid's House also offers a variety of child abuse prevention education.

To find out more about Gulf Coast Kid's House, please visit <http://www.gulfcoastkidshouse.org>

* All proceeds from the SCJA raffle will be donated to the Gulf Coast Kid's House so please don't forget to buy your tickets and support a great charity.

Reception Hosted by Springer Publishing

Join us to thank Springer for their support of the organization and our journal. Food, drinks, and great conversation are available!

(In the event of rain, the reception will be held in Royal Palm A & B)

It is only fitting that at the 2018 SCJA conference in Pensacola Beach this September, we will have a contest to determine who wears the craziest beach outfit to the Thursday evening reception. So get out that weird beach hat, the embarrassing shirt you thought would be cool but now only takes up room in your closet, and the bathing suit you wish you had never bought. Who knows if you have my sense of fashion you might just win!

Join us in celebrating AJCJ's new impact factor!

the wonderful sessions.

Note that this reception is outside of the conference hotel. After walking out of the hotel parking lot (so use the door in the opposite direction of the beach), take a right. Walk about 400 yards and cross the street. It won't look like much other than a 1950's motel, but there is a bar in the back on the sand with great music. It juts right up onto the sound so you can wear your bathing suit and take your drink in the water with you. They also have a large stage where our outgoing president will show off his dancing moves. Join the fun, stay for their famous burgers if our reception isn't filling enough. It'll be your favorite place on the island.

Wesley Jennings, Program Chair
Texas State University

We're headed back to Music City in 2019. Join us at the recently renovated Downtown Doubletree for a great conference! In addition to the stellar panels and fellowship that have made Southern conference the top regional criminology conference, we've planned a special emphasis on how we might increase our productivity as academics in meaningful ways. Thematic presentations, discussions, and roundtables will attempt to illuminate paths to more efficient research and teaching practices. Mindful of our 2018 focus on broad societal impacts, our 2019 conference will center on increasing efficiency in ways that yield more impactful and socially meaningful outcomes. The DoubleTree is just a couple of blocks from the heart of Nashville's music district. You'll be able to easily walk to the Ryman Auditorium, the Country Music Hall of Fame, and numerous other attractions. The deadline for proposals is July 15, 2019. Please email questions to Dr. Wesley Jennings, Texas State University (jenningswgj@txstate.edu).

We've arranged for a very affordable rate for the hotel ($189 per night). Book early. If you wait until the last minute, you might have to pay well over $300 per night for a similar hotel nearby.

*Due to conference growth, some panels will be held on Tuesday afternoon in 2019

The American Journal of Criminal Justice is a peer reviewed publication offering research on a wide array of criminal justice topics and issues. Coverage addresses the criminal justice process, the formal and informal interplay between system components, problems and solutions experienced by various segments, innovative practices, policy development and implementation, evaluative research, the players engaged in these enterprises, and a wide assortment of other related interests. The Journal publishes original articles that utilize a broad range of methodologies and perspectives when examining crime, law, and criminal justice processing. This is the official journal of the Southern Criminal Justice Association.

NEW IMPACT FACTOR!

We're very excited to announce that the American Journal of Criminal Justice has received its first impact factor of 0.925!

Springer congratulates the American Journal of Criminal Justice and the Southern Criminal Justice Association on this outstanding achievement.

Department of Criminal Justice and Criminology

The data science revolution has created opportunities in the fields of criminal justice and criminology. Crime Analytics is the application of data science methodological tools to the study of crime and the criminal justice system. The University of North Carolina Justice and Criminology offers Crime Analytics. A graduate certificate in Fall 2018. Qualified Master's students credentials can earn a stipend of up to $18,000 in addition to a tuition waiver. Internship opportunities are available in the private and public sectors. Planning for a forthcoming Ph.D. program in Data Science with an emphasis in Crime Analytics is currently in progress with hopes of a Fall 2020 launch.

Graduate Studies in Criminology and Criminal Justice

The Ph.D. in Criminology and Criminal Justice at Old Dominion University is centered on policy and inequality, criminological theory, and research methods and statistics. The department features a diverse faculty with expertise in:

- Inequality (race, class and gender)
- Juvenile Justice
- Policing
- Social Justice
- Violence Against Women
- Criminological Theory
- Research Methods and Statistics

Ph.D. in Criminology and Criminal Justice

- Competitive assistantships
- Ph.D. students publish with faculty in peer-reviewed journals
- Ph.D. students gain valuable teaching experience
- Past students have received awards from national organizations
- Recent Ph.D. graduates have accepted tenure-track positions at James Madison University, Eastern Kentucky University, Marymount University and Arcadia University (among others)

Old Dominion University, located in the coastal city of Norfolk, Virginia, is a vibrant multicultural city which serves as the financial capital of the Hampton Roads area. ODU is just 20 minutes from the Chesapeake Bay, 30 minutes from the Atlantic Ocean in Virginia Beach, and 4 hours from Washington, DC. Lovely weather with moderate winters offer beautiful landscapes and water views throughout the year.

Master of Arts – Criminal Justice

The master's degree in Criminal Justice is designed to provide a foundation in research and theory in substantive areas of criminal justice activity and focused scholarship on issues of importance to the field.

Our faculty is very productive in terms of teaching, publishing, and service to the community. This translates into graduate courses that are cutting-edge and relevant, as well as opportunities for both faculty-student research collaborations and student engagement in community discipline-related service. A recent internal review determined that our program has a 100% placement rate for students applying to Ph.D. programs.

The Department of Criminal Justice at Boise State University was named one of the top 10 M.A.-granting universities in terms of total grant dollars obtained by our faculty (Mustaine & Tewksbury, 2009).

THE UNIVERSITY OF MEMPHIS

The Public Safety Institute (PSI) is part of the School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy at the University of Memphis, and focuses on engaged research with practical applications in the field of public safety. That focus includes (1) identifying the important questions to ask and how to ask them, (2) conducting and analyzing the necessary research to determine the answers, and (3) determining what the answers really mean in practical application.

The PSI is an interdisciplinary part of the university community committed to identifying and advancing public safety best practices. By developing research-practice partnerships with both public and private agencies, the PSI brings a deep expertise to real problem-solving in the areas of crime prevention, intervention, and crime reduction. We can help from start to finish.
