Greetings,

Welcome to Asheville for the 2022 Southern Criminal Justice Association's annual conference, which is a celebration of 50 years as a professional organization. Thank you for visiting us. We're glad you're here.

As Mayor, I am pleased to extend this official welcome to you on behalf of our residents. We appreciate your patronage of our local businesses while you are here. Please know that your contribution to our local economy is deeply appreciated. Thank you for choosing Asheville.

While visiting Asheville, I hope you enjoy the sights and sounds of our vibrant mountain town. Asheville has many restaurants serving locally-grown food, eclectic shops with arts and crafts created by local artisans, and entertainment venues featuring local and national performers.

Please accept my invitation to visit us again sometime. I hope that you have a safe journey home.

Sincerely,

Esther E. Manheimer
Mayor

Dear SCJA Members and Conference Participants,

Happy 50th anniversary! I cannot think of a better place to celebrate 50 years of evolution into the largest regional organization in our field than the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains, specifically in Asheville, NC. Our local arrangements committee had compiled an excellent list of recommendations for restaurants, activities and points of interest for conference participants. Asheville is known for its amazing offerings of food, so be sure to try every hot spot you can. Due to staff shortage in some establishments, I would recommend making a reservation if you decide to go out for a late meal after the receptions (especially if you have a large group).

We have an amazing conference planned this year and hope you will join us for as much as you can. With 40 panels and roundtables, as well as 33 posters, we have a wide range of scholarly presentations and expect a record number of attendees. Following a wonderful turnout at Daytona, we are so glad you have decided to join us for another in-person conference. We will provide masks and hand sanitizers in conference spaces to ensure safety and comfort. We are extremely grateful for all of our sponsors, especially to Appalachian State University, Kennesaw State University, Old Dominion University, University of Central Florida, University of South Florida and Springer for their support of the conference and our receptions on Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday night, we will enjoy a final reception at the Wicked Weed Funkatorium in the South Slope brewery district. Be sure to explore the wide offerings of breweries after you leave the Funkatorium. There will be entertainment from the heart of our region at all three receptions.

Our luncheon and awards ceremony is an important tradition of SCJA, planned for Thursday from 12:30pm-2:30pm. Internationally renowned scholar, as well as a mentor and dear friend to me, Dr. Alida Merlo, will provide the Keynote Address. Following her speech, we will present our annual awards to notable students, scholars and practitioners in the field. Lastly, we are extremely excited to honor our charity this year, Youth Villages, with what we hope is the largest charity donation yet. This depends on your participation, so don't forget to purchase raffle tickets from Ben Stickle and designated students during receptions or during registration (online or at the registration desk). You could win an amazing prize and all your donations go toward providing opportunities for at-risk youth in the Blue Ridge area.

Lastly, I encourage you to attend my Presidential Address on Wednesday at 5pm. The theme is "Going Back to Our Roots: 50 Years of SCJA." While I promise to keep it brief, yet impactful, I am excited to show all of you the oral history video that has been compiled over the past few years. The COVID-19 pandemic could not suppress our celebration of SCJA! Another huge celebration for SCJA is our journal, American Journal of Criminal Justice, is ranked #3 and has an impact factor of 6.037. Since our organization took over AJCJ, it has continued to grow and thrive in a competitive environment. I want to sincerely thank and congratulate every editor, managing editor, and editorial board member, as well as all the published authors. It is because of you our journal is so successful.

I want to give a huge thank you to Kent Kerley, the Program Chair and First Vice President, for compiling a fantastic program with such a quick turnaround from the abstract submission due date. Thank you to Ráchael Powers, Second Vice President, for all her hard work with our awards program, and to Bryan Miller, Immediate Past President, for his administration of a smooth election cycle. A big thanks to our Treasurer, Molly Buchanan, for maintaining such a huge endeavor. Huge shout out to Kathy Johnson and all her work during her final year as Secretariat. Thank you to our dedicated Executive Board members (Lisa Carter, John Eassey, Jim Hawdon, Kristina Lopez-Smith, Mitch Miller, Ben Stickle, Shaun Thomas) for all they do for this organization. Finally, we are excited to welcome our incoming Executive Board members, Julie Baldwin (Second VP), Andy Hansen (Secretariat), and Brenda Vose.

Thank you to all SCJA members for trusting me as your President this year. It has been an amazing honor to serve you and the organization. I truly hope you enjoy all the planning that went into this conference and that it honors our golden anniversary as much as it deserves.

Sincerely,

American Journal of Criminal Justice

Call for Papers

Sponsored by the Southern Criminal Justice Association since 1975, the American Journal of Criminal Justice disseminates empirical research and academic commentary on a wide array of criminal justice topics and issues. Articles address contemporary developments, evidence-based practice discovery, and challenges across the prongs of the criminal and juvenile justice systems. Additional interest areas include juvenile delinquency, applied criminology, the drugs-crime nexus, women and crime, immigration and crime, and other topics germane to the justice system. AJCJ publishes original applied and pure research articles that feature a broad range of methodologies and theoretical perspectives. Manuscripts go through a blind review process.

A “namesake realization” initiative begun in 2018 to elevate the publication included a larger, diverse, and multidisciplinary editorial board of prominent and emerging scholars, thematic guest edited issues, award of a social science citation index factor, and increased manuscript selectivity. The journal has been on a multi-year ascension in CCJ publication rankings having reached the top with a July 2022 ISI ranking of #3 in the discipline and an impact factor over 6! AJCJ is now a journal of first choice, and we welcome quality submissions. Prospective authors can submit their work by visiting www.editorialmanager.com/ajcj.

STATE OVERVIEW

NORTH CAROLINA

Youth Villages is a national leader in children's mental and behavioral health, focused on providing the most effective help to children with emotional and behavioral problems, their families, and young adults who are aging out of state services. By partnering with innovative state leaders and philanthropists, Youth Villages spurs positive change to child welfare, children's mental health and juvenile justice systems through public-private partnerships, value or performance-based contracting and a focus on achieving long-lasting positive outcomes for the most challenging youth and families.

Since 2005, Youth Villages North Carolina has helped over 20,000 children and young adults through our in-home and community-based programs. We've achieved an 94% success rate at one year post-discharge. For us, success means that youth are living successfully at home with their family or independently in the community and we believe that no child is a lost cause.

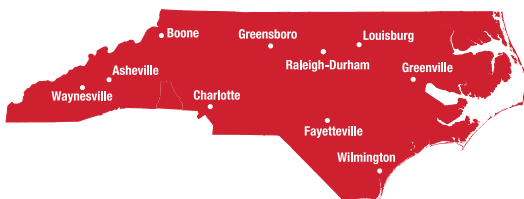

"WE BELIEVE IN THE STRENGTH OF NORTH CAROLINA FAMILIES. WE DO WHATEVER IT TAKES TO HELP THESE CHILDREN AND THEIR FAMILIES BE SUCCESSFUL."

PAUL ENDERSON, Executive Director, North Carolina

Our Programs

Youth Villages expanded to North Carolina in 2005 when we opened an office in Raleigh-Durham. We've since expanded to areas throughout the state.

Intensive In-Home Treatment

Our intensive in-home treatment programs provide help for troubled teenagers, children and families in their own homes at times convenient for the families. Youth Villages offers three intensive in-home treatment programs: Intercept®, Multisystemic Therapy® (MST®) and High Fidelity Wraparound.

LifeSet

LifeSet is a program developed by Youth Villages that gives young adults the support and guidance they need to make a successful transition to adulthood. We primarily work with at-risk young people leaving the foster care, juvenile justice and mental health systems.

YVSCHOLARS

YV Scholars are selected from a large pool of LifeSet candidates who have demonstrated a commitment to academic achievement. LifeSet specialists assist these young people in achieving academic, career and life goals. In addition, the program supports young adults as they prepare for the next chapter of life after college and look for their first job.

“They help you put the pieces together and then they put a light in you that helps you shine through the brokenness.”

The force for families | NORTH CAROLINA

youthvillages.org

Youth Villages is a national leader in children's mental and behavioral health, committed to building strong families, delivering effective services and significantly improving outcomes for children, families and young people involved in child welfare and juvenile justice systems across the country. Founded in 1986, the organization's 3,300 employees help more than 32,000 children annually in 23 states and the District of Columbia. Youth Villages has been recognized by the Harvard Business School and U.S. News & World Report and was identified by The White House as one of the nation's most promising results-oriented nonprofit organizations.

2022 SCJA Award Recipients

Tom Barker Outstanding Undergraduate Award:
Chance Reasonover, University of Tennessee Chattanooga

Chance Reasonover is a graduate student at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. While at UTC as an undergraduate, she received multiple awards including the SGA's Outstanding Senior Award, the SCJS Department's Outstanding Criminal Justice Undergraduate Student Award, and the Chi Omega Sorority's Best Senior/Active Scholarship Award. She has a passion for helping disadvantaged children and hopes to work in this area after completing her master's degree in criminal justice.

Outstanding Master's Student:
Joanna Frazier, University of North Florida

Joanna D. Frazier is a master's student in the Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice at the University of North Florida where she has served as the Managing Editor of the American Journal of Criminal Justice. Her research interests include the application of criminological theory to target behavior and victimization, as well as diversity in criminal justice organizations. Her research addressing female and minority representation in U.S. law enforcement is forthcoming in Police Quarterly.

Outstanding Doctoral Student:

Katelyn P. Hancock, Georgia State University

Katelyn P. Hancock is an Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice in the Social, Cultural, and Justice Studies Department at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. She recently graduated from Georgia State University with a Ph.D. in Criminal Justice and Criminology. Her research interests focus primarily on the victimization of diverse groups, polyvictimization, sexual assault, and intimate partner violence.

AJCJ Paper of the Year:

Eric Jardine, Virginia Tech

Policing the Cybercrime Script of Darknet Drug Markets: Methods of Effective Law Enforcement Intervention. Pp. 980–1005 (2021)

Eric Jardine is the cybercrimes research lead at Chainalysis, a blockchain analytics company, and formerly an assistant professor of political science at Virginia Tech. His research focuses on various facets of cybercrime, including ransomware, darknet markets, and wider cybersecurity issues.

Outstanding Professional of the Year:

Mike Mathis, Criminal Investigator, Hamilton County District Attorney's Office

Captain Mike Mathis (retired) began his career as a corrections officer in the Hamilton County Tennessee Sheriff's Office. He joined the Chattanooga Police Department a few years later and over the course of 27 years, rose in the ranks of the chain of command to Commander of Internal Affairs. After retirement following an impressive career with the Chattanooga PD, Captain Mathis began serving as a consultant for the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. For the past eight years he has worked in the Hamilton County District Attorney's Office, where he serves as the Cold Case Unit Supervisor for the 11th Judicial District.

SCJA Educator of the Year:

Dr. Jeff Walker, University of Alabama at Birmingham

Jeffery T. Walker is University Professor in the Department of Criminal Justice and Director of the Center for the Study of Community Health (a CDC Prevention Research Center) at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. He is Principal Investigator or Key Personnel on approximately $266 million in grants from multiple divisions of the National Institute of Justice, Center for Disease Control, Department of Justice, National Science Foundation, and others. His areas of interest are social/environmental factors of neighborhoods, community determinants of health, and spatial analysis. He is a past President of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences.

Student and Untenured Faculty Travel Award

Beginning in 2021, SCJA set aside funds for up to twenty students and untenured faculty members to receive a two-night stay at the conference hotel. Preference was given to applicants currently enrolled in schools within the Southern region. All applicants had to be current members of SCJA at the time of application, lead author on a paper or poster at the conference, and available to stay for two nights at the conference hotel.

Springer Reception and Raffle

We wish to thank our amazing partner, Springer, which publishes our highly-ranked flagship journal, American Journal of Criminal Justice (AJCJ).

AJCJ is a peer-reviewed publication and manuscripts go through a blind review process. The focus of the journal is on a wide array of criminal justice topics and issues. Examples include the criminal justice process, the formal and informal interplay between system components, problems and solutions experienced by various segments, innovative practices, policy development and implementation, evaluative research, the players engaged in these enterprises, and a wide assortment of other related interests. The journal publishes original articles that utilize a broad range of methodologies and perspectives when examining crime, law, and criminal justice processing.

Stacey Clifton

Ph.D. in Sociology, Virginia Tech

Virginia Tech's Sociology program has been a vital asset to my growth as a scholar. The faculty are welcoming and engaging with their students and encouraged me to pursue interdisciplinary work with other departments at the university. This work, along with my background in Criminal Justice, provided numerous opportunities to work within and outside of academia.

Leanna Ireland

Ph.D. in Sociology, Virginia Tech

The Sociology program has been highly instrumental in my development as a scholar and preparation for a career in academia. Throughout my time here, the faculty truly invested in my success. They were supportive, approachable, and encouraging from the very beginning. The program also connected me with a wider range of opportunities across the university, from a transdisciplinary urban computing certificate to a teaching mentorship program.
